Construction of the Challenger Unique.

Amount of Metal in the Shamrock a Surprise.

[Copyright, 1899, by the Associated Press.]

LONDON, June 17.—In spite of the abnormal secrecy in everything connected with the America's cup challenger Shamrock, a representative of the Associated Press has been able to glean a few facts about the boat, interesting alike to yachtsmen and the general public. The original estimate of the cost of the vessel has nearly doubled, but Sir Thomas Lipton will not have to foot the whole of the bill, as the Thornycrofts, who are keenly interested, hoping the Shamrock's success will add laurels to the firm's reputation, are bearing a portion of the expense.

Those who are inside declare the yacht's construction is absolutely unique and that the amount of metal employed will be a surprise to the yachting world when it is divulged. In color and texture, the alloy has the appearance of aluminum, of which, indeed, it has a large percentage. It possesses extraordinary resistance and lightness and has been used everywhere where wood was not considered absolutely essential. Immense difficulty has been encountered in moulding the plates. Although the sheathing tends to give her a heavy appearance, the yacht has in reality

M'KINLEY THERE.

Holyoke's Day of Days, and the City in Gala Dress.

HOLYOKE, Mass., June 17.—This is the day of days in the city of Holyoke; President McKinley is here. The city is in gala dress to welcome her distinguished visitor and the guests who accompany him. There is hardly a building which does not bear evidences of the decorator's handiwork. Flags and streamers are flapping from every pole along the streets, and masses of bunting, tastefully arranged upon the fronts of residences and business blocks, were rustled and shaken out to their full beauty by the cool, brisk breeze of the early morning.

Even the weather appeared at its best. No fairer day could have been desired. The early morning was slightly cloudy but there were no signs of rain or of anything to mar in any way the pleasures of the day.

The objective point for every one in the morning was the railway station. By 9:30 o'clock there was hardly an inch of standing room anywhere about the building that was not utilized, and the streets leading from the station to the residence of Mr. Whiting were black with a good-natured, constantly moving crowd, anxious to get a view of the members of the party, as they hurried by under the escort of a squad of police.

At Westfield the train was boarded by a committee of Holyoke citizens, headed by Hon. William Whiting, who greeted the President warmly, and was introduced to the others of the party. The President had been fully rested by a good sleep during the night, and evinced much interest in the many preparations which had been made for his comfort and that of the other members of his party.

Holyoke was reached at 10 o'clock. The city had turned out to a man, it seemed, and as the President, who was the first to alight, appeared at the door of the last car, a mighty cheer arose from the thousands congregated there, and he was compelled to bow his acknowledgements. The police arrangements for handling the great crowd were admirable. The party alighted in an open space, which was roped off and guarded by a score of policemen. They were welcomed by a committee from the city and were then taken direct to the awaiting carriages, and the drive to the home of Mr. Whiting began.

In the first carriage were President McKinley, William Whiting, William Skinner; second carriage, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen, Acting Private Secretary Cortelyou, Mayor Chapin; third carriage, Abner McKinley, A. M. French, J. J. Curran; fourth carriage, George E. Morse, Rudolph Foster, Pierre Bouvouloir; fifth carriage, Dr. Rixey, Senator G. N. Tyner, Edward Walther, J. J. Prew; sixth carriage, M. P. Conway and H. E. McElwain. Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Allen were driven directly to the home of Mr. Whiting, the other women of the party going to the Hamilton Hotel. Mr. Whiting's personal guests during the following days will be President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary and Mrs. Allen, Dr. Rixey and Private Secretary Cortelyou.

The swiftly moving line of carriages was greeted with cheers and the waving of flags and handkerchiefs from the crowds, which lined both sides of the streets through which they went, and much of the enthusiasm which had been pent up for days was given free vent, the scene, indeed, being a patriotic one. The last part of the drive was through a street which was arched with tall elms, from which fluttered flags and streamers, making a very pretty effect. At the Whiting residence, the guests were welcomed by the hostess and the members of the Whiting family. Luncheon was announced for 2:30 o'clock. During the day several of the more prominent local men called to pay their respects.

CAUGHT FROM COALS.

Tugboat Warren Damaged by Fire on the Marine Railway at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., June 17.—Tugboat C. A. Warren, while on the marine railway, took fire at 2 a. m., and was damaged to the extent of $2,000, partially insured. The fire caught from coals, the fires under her boiler having been hauled last night.

A deckhand named Orin Drisko was sleeping on board and had a narrow escape, just escaping with his life by a rope over the stern of the boat.

CHEER UPON CHEER.

"The Men Behind the Guns" March in Charlestown.

Chief Feature in the Bunker Hill Day Celebration.

BOSTON, June 17.—The one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated here today with three parades, banquets, reunions of patriotic societies, and general festivities. The centre of the demonstrations was at Charlestown, where the usual carnival and civic parades were held, but this year the lines were augmented by a parade of marines and sailors from the North Atlantic squadron, which arrived yesterday for the occasion. Thousands of sightseers witnessed the parades, and the "men behind the guns" received an ovation of a nature seldom given and long to be remembered.

The celebration began at midnight, and from that hour, with all sorts of noise-producing implements, young and old joined in keeping the day. The bells were rung at sunrise and those who had not been up all night were about early, prepared for the day's events. Nearly every building in the Charlestown district was decorated and flags were displayed all over the city. During the early hours of the day throngs of spectators poured into Charlestown and by the time the parade started the number of strangers was estimated at 30,000.

A crowd surrounded the entrance to the navy yard. Promptly at 9 o'clock the big gates at the navy yard were opened, and headed by the navy yard band two full battalions of four companies of marines, from the New York, Texas, Indiana, Massachusetts, Wabash and Lancaster, under command of Colonel H. C. Cochrane, passed out at a swinging gait. Then followed four companies of blue-jackets from the warships, under command of Captain C. J. Train of the Massachusetts. The appearance of the men on the street was greeted with a roar of cheers, mingled with the tooting of horns and the sound of firearms. The line passed along the principal streets amid cheers and most enthusiastic greetings.

The parade of the Carnival Association, which took place following the naval parade, was marked by the usual features.

At 2:30 o'clock the civic parade was held, one of the chief features being the appearance of the Letter Carriers' Association, headed by their own band.

As usual, many accidents occurred in course of the celebration. Among those reported were the cases of Albert Tolley, 27 years old, who had both eyes injured by a cannon cracker; Charles W. McCarthy, 53 years old, left hand shattered by the premature explosion of a cannon cracker; Charles Condy, a sailor of ship Pass, from Balmah, Scotland, hand shattered by a cannon cracker, and John Wall, 16 years old, shot in the left leg by an unknown person.

STEAMERS SAFE.

Seven Already at Dawson and Others Expected Daily.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 17.—The fear that several steamers of the lower Yukon fleet would be destroyed when the ice broke has fortunately not been realized. The John J. Healy, Tyrell, Victorian, Seattle, Sovereign, Monarch and Arnold had arrived at Dawson June 3, from Rampart City, and several steamers were daily expected.

Reports of the gold output on Minook creek were favorable. Ex-Governor McGraw of Washington and his partners are said to have $10,000 worth of nuggets in a Rampart store. The Northwest mounted police have sent out notices to miners on the various creeks that it is dangerous to bring large quantities of gold to Dawson without an armed guard. It is claimed by the officials that there are large numbers of highwaymen in the country.

It is reported that an offer of $500,000 was made for the privilege of working the dump on Leppis claim in Eldorado creek. Charles Hansfield of Helena took out between $1,000 and $1,500 worth of gold on his claim in Bonanza, in six hours. Bench claims on Hunker creek are being sold as high as $1,000 without development. Andrew Hunker, the discoverer of the creek, recently sold his claim for $175,000.

The trial of the proprietors of the Klondike Nugget for libeling United States Consul McCook resulted in their acquittal.

It is stated that the bulk of the Klondike output will come by way of St. Michaels. The banks of Dawson are buying all the gold offered, and have a large amount stored in their vaults.

Negotiating for Lake Dock Holdings.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Boston and New York capitalists are said to be negotiating for the purchase of the Calumet & Chicago Canal and Dock Company's holdings, extending from the mouth of the Calumet river to the Indiana state line. The value of the property is estimated at from $600,000 to $800,000.

SEVEN BRITISH WARSHIPS.

Unofficially Reported Off the Entrance of Delagoa Bay.

LONDON, June 17.—According to a despatch to a news agency here, from Pretoria, a squadron of seven British warships has arrived at Inyack island (or St. Mary's island), at the entrance of Delagoa bay. There is no confirmation of the report and in semi-official circles it is looked upon as being untrue.

EARTHQUAKE AT ILOILO.

Supposed to Have Been Caused by a Volcano in Eruption.

MANILA, June 17.—An earthquake shock was felt at Iloilo at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, which the inhabitants say was the severest ever known. It is supposed that the shock was caused by the volcano Conloan, in Negros, in eruption. An explosion was heard apparently under Iloilo, followed 30 seconds later by shaking of the earth.

SERIES OF SHOCKS.

West Indies Shaken at Intervals Since the Middle of May.

KINGSTOWN, Jamaica, June 17.—A continuous series of earthquakes, extending from Colon through the Caribbees to Curacoa and Maracaybo, have been reported since the middle of May. The most severe action was felt at Montserrat and Guadeloupe, causing much damage. A curious shock was felt throughout Jamaica Wednesday, comprising five movements during 15 minutes. No damage, however, was done.

FIRE STILL BURNING.

But Volunteers Expected to be Able to Work in the Caledonia Colliery.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 17.—The fire is still burning in the Caledonia colliery, but the conditions today are said to be more favorable than yesterday for fighting the flames. The volunteers entered the pit, to endeavor to extinguish the fire, and it is expected, on account of the prevailing movement of the air currents, that the men will be able to penetrate further than they could get yesterday, on account of the smoke. The body of Donald Martin has not yet been recovered, and there is a slight hope that he may have found safety in a part of the old workings.

EVERY DEMAND GRANTED.

Gloucester Granite Strike Ends in Victory for the Men.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 17.—The strike at the Rockport Granite Company's quarries at Rockport has ended in favor of the strikers, and the men will return to work next Monday under conditions to obtain which they struck 15 weeks ago.

The result was made known in a letter from the Boston counsel of the Rockport Granite Company to Colonel William A. Pew, Jr., counsel for the strikers, announcing the fact that the company had acceded to every demand made by the workmen. These include a nine-hour day for five days in the week, with eight hours on Saturday, and time and one half to be paid for all overtime. The company also agrees not to discriminate against any man who took part in the strike, and also states that it will endeavor to continue in the future as much winter work as possible.

The granite workers this morning voted unanimously to accept the terms. President Frank S. Brewer of the stone workers' union, and Oscar Lawson were appointed a committee to wait on the local officials here and inform them that many of the strikers would make application for their old places today. The strike has been the hardest fought battle between labor and capital that this section has known, more than 2,000 hands having been affected.

RIFLES FOR CARLISTS.

Four Thousand Seized on Yacht Firefly.

Craft Owned by Representative of the Spanish Pretender.

MADRID, June 17.—Official confirmation has been received here of the seizure of yacht Firefly at Arcachon, a popular summer bathing place, 35 miles southwest of Bordeaux, France, with 4,000 rifles said to have been intended for the Carlists. It is claimed the Firefly belongs to Lord Ashburton, who is looked upon as being the representative of Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, in England.

A well known Carlist who has been interviewed on the subject says: "Even if 4,000 rifles have been seized, 8,000 have already entered the country."

The Firefly arrived at Arcachon from Dartmouth, England.

TO BALANCE THE BUDGET.

Spain Will Seek a Reduction in the Rate of Interest.

MADRID, June 17.—It is semi-officially announced that the Spanish minister of finance has established the equilibrium of the budget. It is said a tax of 20 per cent will be imposed on international rents, and that as regards the external debt the July coupons will be paid in full, but the government will ask the Cortes for authority to negotiate with the foreign bondholders, with the view of obtaining a reduction in the rate of interest.

This Morning's News.

THE ATTACK ON SAN FERNANDO.

Aguinaldo and His Men Repulsed with Heavy Loss.

MANILA, June 16.—After cutting the railroad and telegraph at Apalit, seven miles south, for the purpose of severing communications, the rebels attacked General MacArthur's lines at San Fernando at 4:30 o'clock this morning. They met with an unexpectedly warm reception, and were repulsed with a loss of 75 killed, 30 prisoners and many wounded.

The rebel force, estimated to have numbered 5,000 men, advanced stealthily from the jungle north of the city, and then divided, with the evident purpose of surrounding the Americans. The outposts of the Iowa regiment discovered the enemy and retired to their lines, where the entire division awaited the attack in an entrenched position.

The Iowa and the Kansas regiments received the first shock of the attack. Reserving their fire until the enemy was within 600 yards, the first volley of the Americans hit the rebels, who returned the fire wildly, the rest of their line failing to advance. The Americans, who thoroughly enjoyed the novelty of the situation, that of awaiting an attack, sallied forth, and the insurgents thereupon turned and fled into the jungle.

Our loss was 14 men wounded, and the majority of them are only slightly hurt.

General Funston's brigade of Kansans and Montanans, and General Hale's brigade, the Seventeenth regiment and the Iowa regiment, constituted the force engaged.

Aguinaldo is reported to have personally conducted the attack, and preparations were made for several days to bring forward troops from Candaba, and others from Dagupan were transported by rail.

Along the front of the Kansas regiment 39 rebel dead were counted.

The first news of the Filipino advance was reported by a telegraph operator who was sent to the bridge at Apalit to ascertain the cause of a break in one of the wires. He was compelled to beat a hasty retreat under fire.

A Spanish officer who has been a prisoner in the hands of the rebels, and who was released by Aguinaldo, has come through our lines to Manila. He claims to have been a witness of the assassination of General Luna.

According to his story, the relations between the two Filipino leaders had been strained to the breaking point because of Luna's attempts to assume control of affairs, and the final rupture was forced by Aguinaldo issuing secret orders to the provincial governments. Luna demanded of Aguinaldo copies of the documents, and Aguinaldo replied curtly that Luna was a general of the army, and that the civil government did not concern him. Luna, on opening the reply at his headquarters, in the presence of his officers, exclaimed hotly: "He will be dead tomorrow."

One officer, who was friendly to Aguinaldo, hastened to warn him, and Aguinaldo called together 20 trusted soldiers, fellow-townsmen of his, and stationed them around his house, with instructions to kill any one attempting to enter, regardless of rank.

Luna appeared the next day, and saw Aguinaldo at the window. A member of the guard said: "Aguinaldo has gone to inspect the troops." Luna then exclaimed: "You are a liar," drew his revolver, struck the guard, and tried to force an entrance into the house. Before he could use his revolver, one of the guards bayonetted him, another shot him in the back, and others stabbed him. In all, he had 20 wounds. Luna's aide-de-camp was killed in the same way.

The Spaniard's story has not entirely dispelled the doubts of Luna's death, and bets that he is alive are freely made at the clubs. Some people think Aguinaldo has taken pains to send the Spaniard here with his story for the furtherance of some diplomatic scheme, while others suspect Aguinaldo has been assassinated by Luna's men.

Since the Americans withdrew from Candaba, recently, the rebels have returned and have wreaked vengeance upon those who befriended the Americans. They slaughtered the natives who surrendered the town, and displayed their heads on poles in the public square.

The hostile natives of Cebu are more menacing. Mail advices say hostilities against the Americans have begun there. Colonel Hamer, the American commander, has asked for re-enforcements, and four companies of the Tennessee regiment have been sent to him from Iloilo. The Nebraska regiment has been ordered to sail for home early next week.

NOT UNTIL AUGUST.

Otis Cannot Have 35,000 Men Under the Best Conditions.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Under the most favorable circumstances, it would hardly be possible for the government to increase the army in the Philippines up to the 35,000 limit before the first of August. About 6,000 of the troops destined for service in the Philippines, and included in the proposed 35,000 force, are still in this country and will not be able to reach the scene of action for five or six weeks. The officials of the War Department are making every effort, however, to expedite their departure, and to that end have arranged for the immediate preparation of transports Sheridan, Pennsylvania, Zealandia and Valencia. These vessels are all at San Francisco and have a total capacity of 4,100. Unless present plans miscarry, all these vessels will start for Manila before the end of the month.

In addition to these reenforcements, provision will have to be made for the transportation of about 1,700 recruits now undergoing instruction at the Presidio, San Francisco, and the Nineteenth regiment of infantry, numbering about 1,200 men, now in camp at Middletown, Penn.

PRESENTED AT MADRID.

Bellamy Storer, New Minister to Spain, Formally Received.

MADRID, June 16. The newly appointed minister to Spain, Mr. Bellamy Storer, was received in formal audience by the queen regent today. There was no speech, only a few cordial phrases being exchanged. Two state carriages from the royal stables conveyed Mr. Storer from the Hotel De Rome to the palace and took him back to the hotel after the audience. Premier Silvela presented Mr. Storer to Her Majesty.

There were no crowds about the palace, Mr. Storer's reception being unannounced, in order to avoid disagreeable incidents. The fact that there were no speeches is not surprising, as this is the practice when ministers are received. Speeches are only made in the case of ambassadors. The queen regent was very amiable and complimentary toward Mr. Storer, and inquired cordially concerning the health of President McKinley.

M. WALDECK-ROUSSEAU.

He Will Attempt to Form a New Ministry for France.

PARIS, June 16.—Senator Pierre Waldeck-Rousseau has accepted the task of constructing a cabinet, which M. Poincare declined. His decision was reached after a long conference with MM. Brisson, Sarrien and Mougeot, Radicals, who finally refused to agree to the conditions on which M. Poincare offered them representation in the cabinet. M. Delcasse also refused to form a new ministry.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

The afternoon session of the common pleas division of the supreme court was largely occupied with the case of Davis vs. Davis, counsel on both sides presenting arguments in favor of their respective clients. The court reserved its decision.

The case of Patrick H. Corbett vs. William C. Lynch, in which no jury trial was claimed, was then heard, Mr. Callaghan appearing for plaintiff, Mr. Nolan for defendant. It was an action on book account for liquors. Defendant claimed that while the license for the place to which they were sent was taken in his name, he had nothing whatever to do with the business, his mother paying the bills and he after a time being away from Newport altogether. One application for license was signed and affidavit sworn to in his name by another person whose name also appeared. When this was shown Mr. Callaghan withdrew his claim to charges during the year that followed this application, on which license was duly issued. The court gave decision against defendant for items during the rest of the time, that is to say $271.84 and interest from date of writ.

Then it being about 6:40 the court withdrew, leaving Crier Topham to adjourn "if you want to," the real adjournment to be on paper, "to meet according to law;" that is, the regular session is ended.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

A bold attempt at highway robbery was made at Greenville, in the town of Smithfield, Thursday night. Oscar A. Tobey, one of the leading citizens of the village, was sandbagged by two unknown men while on his way home from his store, and only by chance escaped being robbed of a large sum of money. The attempt was made at about 9:30 in the evening. Indications point strongly to residents of the village as the guilty parties.

The conference of the Advent Christian Church for the district of Rhode Island and Eastern Connecticut was closed Thursday night at Bristol by the ordination of Elmer A. Rounds of Bristol to the ministry.

Captain Church of the Point Judith life saving station has just received a new surf boat, designed by Captain H. M. Knowles, superintendent of the district. The boat was built to take the place of one on similar lines transferred to the Sandy Point station at Block Island. It is of cedar, clinker built, double end, 25 feet one inch in length, seven feet beam, depth two feet four inches, shear on gunwale one foot 11 inches; on keel, seven inches. The boat is made buoyant by air chambers nine inches in diameter running the entire length of each side.

Good progress is being made in the construction of the meeting house for the Haven Methodist Episcopal Church at East Providence, and Monday afternoon it is proposed to lay the corner-stone, which has been furnished through the liberality of the Watchemoket Fire Company. It is proposed to have the ex-pastors present as far as possible. Rev. B. F. Simon, the pastor when the first structure was erected, now located at Taunton, has been very ill, and it is not known whether or not he will be able to be present. Presiding Elder Bass and a number of other Methodist pastors from Providence and vicinity will attend.

The newly appointed postmaster at Bristol, William G. Gorham, is a well-known Republican and has held the office of surveyor under the town government for the past three years. He was born in Bristol, August 2, 1851, and received his education in the public schools of that town, being later employed by the American Screw Company and the Kendall Soap Works of Providence, and for many years at the factory of the National India Rubber Company of Bristol. He was a member of the Republican town committee of Bristol for several years, and was appointed postmaster of Bristol by President Harrison, succeeding the late John J. Christie, and ably filled the position four years. He was succeeded by the man whom he now succeeds.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Beautiful as our western sky at sunset frequently is, it seldom if ever presents such an exquisite coloring as that of Friday evening. A border of crimson clouds rested upon the horizon, the upper edge of which was as straight as though cut with a knife; the clearest blue, like a ribbon, came next, with a crimson band above, and this was thrice repeated, with rosy clouds changing continually stretching up to the zenith. As late as 8:30 the northwest was such a bank of deep red clouds that the light reflected from them upon glass in the house was like the light from a fire.

Sunday there were 400 people seated and eating at the same time at the Portuguese celebration at Mr. John Brazil's.

The rain Thursday evening, although there was very little of it, freshened everything wonderfully.

Mrs. George Brawley recently used an egg which from its large size she supposed to have a double yolk, but on breaking it she found a complete egg incased in a shell inside the larger one.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Smith of Newport were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Manchester.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church met with Mrs. Elijah L. Tallman Thursday.

The sample half mile road is being covered with gravel brought from Sandy Point.

ARMOR FOR THE NEW WARSHIPS.

Rear Admiral O'Neil, chief of the bureau of ordnance, has received replies from the Carnegie Steel Company and the Bethlehem Iron Works, to his letter, asking them if they would agree to furnish all the armor for the four monitors, Arkansas, Connecticut, Florida and Wyoming, and the diagonal plates of the battleships Ohio, Missouri and Maine at $400 a ton.

Both companies accepted the proposition of Admiral O'Neil, and will send representatives to Washington in a few days to discuss with him the character of the test which the government will impose as a condition to accepting the armor. Owing to the failure of the Navy Department to receive any bids for furnishing armor for these vessels, to be treated by the improved Krupp process within the limit of cost prescribed by Congress, it was decided to endeavor to secure Harveyized armor at $400 a ton.

The acceptance of Admiral O'Neil's proposition by the two armor companies practically insures the completion of the monitors, and the continuance of work on the battleships named without any delay. It is understood that the conditions which the department will impose in regard to the tests of this armor will be very rigid, but the specifications will not be drawn until after the conference between Admiral O'Neil and the representatives of the manufacturers.

THE WEST ON MICROBES.

The urban population of the world may reasonably draw much encouragement from the Boston board of health's report on bacilli and telephones.

The board's expert selected a number of public telephones, swabbed the transmitters with sterilized cotton "carefully prepared and guarded from outside bacilli," then rubbed the cotton on solidified serum, incubated the serum and introduced it into some guinea pigs. At the end of three months the guinea pigs were chloroformed, killed and subjected to post-mortem examination for tuberculosis or other disease, but none appeared.

Thus we are saved.

By taking all the articles with which we come in contact one by one and going through a little process of that sort we can drive the bacilli to its lair; we can run down and exterminate the last microbe on earth.

A person of middle age may confidently expect to live to see the day when the discovery of a microbe will be announced by the ringing of fire bells and the booming of signal guns, and the population will turn out en masse to hunt the brute to its death. At the pace we have gone the last ten years the discovery of a few bacilli will create as great a sensation as the discovery of a herd of buffalo.

It is odd that people keep on dying—in just about the same numbers and of just about the same diseases that they did a hundred years ago.—[Chicago Daily News.

We thank the Lord ordinarily much as if He had passed us the butter.—[Puck.

A SOUTH AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

Amazoniah Rubber Tree Forests Show No Signs of Exhaustion.

In the forthcoming volume of "Commercial Relations" for 1898, the most interesting report thus far prepared for publication is that made by Consul Kenneday at Para, Brazil, on the rubber industry. Mr. Kenneday treats of the rubber-tree under the name "hevea," given it by the French botanist Aublet, who made the first scientific report upon it in the latter part of the last century. The name by which it is most commonly known in this country, "caoutchouc," is the one applied to it by the Maina Indians. The English name "rubber" grew out of the fact that an English artist in 1770 discovered that a new gum which had been introduced into Europe from South America was admirably adapted for rubbing out pencil-marks. Incidentally, it is interesting to know that he recommended the use of this substance on account of its cheapness, because a piece a cubic inch in size would last for years, and cost only three shillings, seventy-five cents in our money. Later in the same century rubber was manufactured into waterproof clothing in France. The Mackintosh house in Manchester, England, afterward went into the manufacture of waterproof clothing on a large scale, and the firm name still clings to this class of garments everywhere in Great Britain.

The hevea tree is so inconspicuous as to pass unnoticed by strangers in the rubber region, who are always looking for a stalk with glossy, dark green leaves. It actually resembles the English ash more than anything else, and grows to be more than 60 feet high. The blossoming season is in August, and the fruit ripens in December and January, but the seeds lose vitality unless soon planted. The tree thrives best on islands and low lands near rivers, where the banks are periodically inundated. Neither ground that is always above water, nor that which has no drainage, is suitable. The hevea will not grow satisfactorily on cleared or open ground, but requires the shade of other trees and still air until it matures. Under other conditions the supply of milk is very much affected; indeed, the tree has been known to die soon after the clearing of the ground around it. The Amazonian forests showing no signs of exhaustion, little, if any, artificial cultivation of the tree has been attempted in that region. The hevea requires about fifteen years to mature. The explored area known to produce pure Para rubber is at least 1,500,000 square miles, and further exploration will probably extend these figures. One group of 200 trees in a favorable region yields three tons of rubber a year.

The collecting season in the lower Amazon region begins when the water has subsided, in July, and ends in January or February. The collectors employed are principally Brazilians, with some Portuguese and half-castes, the native Indian being of little use as a laborer. A collector carries a wood-knife, an axe, a large gourd, some little cups, a big clay bowl, and a few minor utensils, usually made from the resources of the forest, and in a primitive fashion. The knife is used to cut his way through the undergrowth, and to gather fuel for the preparation of the rubber. The axe is required when he reaches a rubber-tree, and has to cut away the rough parts of the bark and make a small, clean gash, through which the sap can flow. He repeats this process in a line around the tree, attaching below each gash a cup to catch the sap. He puts six or seven cups on one tree, and then proceeds to the next and does the same thing. If the trees are not too far apart he may tap from 75 to 150 in a day. The tapping is usually done in the morning, and the collection of the sap in the evening, or vice versa; and the next day another series of gashes are made if each tree a trifle lower down than the first. The amount of rubber gathered daily differs in different regions. In the lower Amazon an expert can gather seven pounds, in the upper Amazon three times as much.

When he has accumulated enough of the sap, or milk—usually in three or four days—the collector builds a fire in a hut he has erected in the meantime, and places over the flame a clay funnel, in shape very much like a toilet water-jug without bottom or handle. The fuel used for the fire is believed to have some virtues in curing rubber. The nuts of certain palms are considered the best fuel, but bark and twigs are used where these cannot be obtained. The sap, having been gathered in cups of clay or tin attached to the trees, has been poured into the gourd, which is large and light enough to carry the contents of from 500 to 700 cups. The gourd is used because it is the lightest receptacle obtainable; but for more permanent storage, large clay bowls are provided. A broad-bladed wooden paddle of local make is used as a mould. When the fire is ready and the smoke ascending from the funnel, this paddle is given a thin coating of the milk and held over the smoke till the surface has coagulated; then a new coating is put on, and this process is repeated until a large cake is formed. To release the cake from the paddle, a slit is made down one side. As the paddle moulds are uniform in size and shape, the Para rubber collectors are able to market their product in a much more businesslike condition. In some other regions a spit is placed on two upright forked sticks and given a rotary motion. This is the easier method of curing rubber, but the paddle-smoked article brings better prices. The process of curing rubber is so injurious to the eyes that total blindness not infrequently results from it. Many attempts have been made to introduce improved curing apparatus, but thus far without permanent success.

As to the profits of this industry, Mr. Kenneday tells us that the land-owner provides outfit, food, etc., for the collector, and in return receives the rubber collected. This he sells on the collector's account, retaining 20 per cent for himself, and continuing to make advances in such a manner that the collector always remains in his debt and consequently in his service. The other side of the picture is shown in the fact that about 75 per cent of the collectors, after having been supplied with outfit and traveling expenses, die, desert, or return to their homes on account of illness, and render the expense incurred for them a dead loss. It often happens, also, that the collector, instead of bringing his rubber back to the landowner, sells it to any buyer who comes along and pockets the proceeds. The person who advances supplies and capital to the collector in exchange for rubber is known as an aviador. The principal aviador remains stationary at some large place, and sends out secondary aviadors, who travel through the rubber country and transact business for the principal. From the principal aviador the exporters of rubber, who are generally agents of United States and British importers, buy their supplies. The shipments from Para in 1898 were 22,813 tons of 2,204 6-10 pounds, almost equally divided between the United States and Europe.

EARLY SUMMER OUTING GOWN FROM HARPER'S BAZAR.

EARLY SUMMER OUTING GOWN.

A very charming gown, taken from Harper's Bazar, is published in today's issue. It is of light wool cloth, suitable for yachting trips or for drives, and has a plain circular skirt of cloth, (the plaid side out), trimmed with curved stitched bands of plain cloth. The skirt is gracefully fitted to the figure, and is closed at the centre of the back under two inward turning plaits. The pattern of the scalloped band accompanies that of the skirt, and the latter is perforated to show the exact position of the band. The little jacket is an exceedingly pretty form of a late walking coat. Its trimming consists of stitched bands of plain cloth, and these border the scallops of the coat and revers. The garment is unlined, and the plaid side of the cloth employed for the collar forms the only variation in the coat, which closes under a (side) fly. The sleeve has the scantiest of gathering about the upper arm. There is a slight flare at the wrist, but no added cuff.

This is an excellent design for fine linen, in which a checked and a plain material might be stylishly combined, or for a mourning gown of Henrietta cloth with applied crepe bands. It will also prove a desirable model for early fall cloth gowns in goods of one color. In this case the revers and bands may be of plain silk, or of contrasting cloth. Where double-faced material is used, a two-inch hem will be a sufficient finish at the bottom. Where thinner material is selected and a lining is to be used, the latter should be cut exactly like the outer skirt, and a three-inch band of crinoline should be used to stiffen the bottom, which may then be bound with velveteen or braid, as individual taste may decide.

Of double-faced wool material 54 inches wide, 5 yards will be required to make the costume. Of plain and plaid linen 27 inches wide, 3½ yards of plain and 7 yards of checked or plaid will be found sufficient.

Cook, stirring all the time, until you have a smooth, thick sauce. Return tripe to it and serve.

NOT A BANDSMAN.

In justice to the members of the Seventh Artillery band, whose appearance on the street has attracted favorable comment, it should be stated that the musician who recently deserted from Fort Greble was not a member of the band. Any one conversant with the make-up of the Artillery would readily know this, but the great majority of readers, seeing a certain man called a musician, would naturally suppose he was a bandsman. It is usual to call such musicians buglers or trumpeters. Had this title been given the man in question it would have distinguished him from the bandsmen.

To those who have met the Seventh Artillery band it seems altogether unnecessary to say that the organization is one that does credit to the army. It was reported to be the best band in the service, and in appearance, in conduct and in its playing seems to merit the title.

A BALLADE OF COIFFURES.

Oh, I remember passing well
The early bang she used to wear,
That rippling to her eyebrows fell
And gave to her a roguish air—
My Nellie of the nut-brown hair—
But Nellie's gone for evermore.
To call her that I'd never dare
Since she's attained a Pompadour.

I mind me of a saintly Nell
Who wore, Priscilla-like, her hair
All primly parted, showing well
A marble forehead smooth and fair;
One height were we, but now, I swear,
She tops me half a foot or more
In the new aspect she doth wear
Since she's attained a Pompadour.

I wish I had made haste to tell
My passion's story, I declare,
Either to Nellie or to Nell—
No solace find I anywhere,
For nowadays I never dare
To call her aught but Eleanor,
So high and mighty is her air
Since she's attained a Pompadour.

ENVOI.

Goddess, whose mandate rules the fair,
Revoke thine edict, I implore,
For I'm beginning to despair
Since she's attained a Pompadour.

"Don't you consider it a rather peculiar way of dealing out justice," asked the critically-inclined tourist, "for the 'Squire to fine a man fifteen dollars for beating his mule and another man only a dollar for whipping his wife?"
"Wa-al, I don't know," replied the landlord of the tavern at Polkville, Arkansaw. "You see, a mule is worth about sixty dollars, while a woman that would live with a man that would whip her ain't worth a damn!"—[Puck.

STEAMER CITY OF FITCHBURG.

Steamer City of Fitchburg, which has plied for years between New York and New Bedford, has been sold to S. N. Ellison and others of Boston, who have formed a company to engage in the passenger and freight-carrying business between Boston, Bar Harbor and Eastport, Me. She will be taken around to Boston by Captain Webber and crew, who will turn her over to her new owners.

When the Fitchburg arrives in Boston she will be immediately overhauled and altered considerably, as as many berths are to be built in her as can be made for passengers. Her pilot house will be raised another deck, and she will be fitted throughout with electric lights and other modern appliances.

The crew, after leaving the Fitchburg in Boston, will proceed to Stonington, where steamer Pequot will be taken and placed on the line between New York and New Bedford. The Pequot is a larger and faster boat than the Fitchburg, having a carrying capacity of seventy-five cars of freight.

The Fitchburg has been a good boat, and up to the last few years ran very regularly in all kinds of weather. So sure was she to go out, foggy or clear, light or heavy weather, that many of the regular Sound boats have more than once been anxious to run across her in thick weather, to verify their positions.—[New Bedford Standard.

BE SURE.

Be sure you need medicine before you take it, but having once found out that you need it—lose no time in getting the best. If it's for the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder or Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia or for Chronic Constipation, the best is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and a very simple way to find out if you need it, is to put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it then has a sediment or a milky, cloudy appearance; if it is ropy or stringy, pale or discolored, you do not need a physician to tell you that you should take Favorite Remedy at once. It speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, burning, scalding pain in passing water, the staining of linen by your urine and all the unpleasant and dangerous effects produced on the system by the use of whiskey and beer. All reliable druggists sell Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy at $1 a bottle, or 6 bottles for $5.

By a special and particular arrangement with the manufacturers, our readers can try this grand medicine absolutely free. By simply sending your full name and postoffice address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., mentioning the Newport Daily News, when a trial-bottle of Favorite Remedy, together with a pamphlet of valuable medical advice, will be sent you by mail postpaid.

The publishers of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this liberal offer.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

That the people are soon to be called upon to vote for the approval or rejection of a new constitution is by this time generally understood. The balloting is to occur at the special election, to be held next week, but, though it is one of the most important questions that has come before the public in many years, or that will be likely to arise in the near future, there appears to be very little interest taken in the matter. The first time the issue was presented, very many of our best citizens did not so far rise to the situation as to vote, either to accept or to reject the document submitted to their approval. The indications are that such will be the case in the contest—if it may be so designated—now near at hand.

This is not to be interpreted as arising from indifference to the system of laws under which the people of Rhode Island are to live in the future, so much as to the fact that the majority of those who should be concerned see little or nothing in the document involving sufficient changes to create an interest that might otherwise be expressed. As a matter of fact, the proposed constitution is one of the most colorless articles of its kind ever offered as involving changes in the organic law. And yet there are persons who are contending earnestly, and even acrimoniously, for and against the adoption of the instrument in question. But it is easily seen that most of the differences arise over matters that are partisan or sectional, and should not enter into consideration at all. The indications are that the proposed new constitution had its origin in a desire to advance private and sectional interests rather than the public good. Certain it is that the men most actively engaged in bringing forward this a second time have been most bitterly opposed to a constitutional convention in which the whole people should have a voice. It may not be just to charge that they have now come forward on the principle of throwing a tub to the whale, but there are suspicious circumstances looking in that direction.

It cannot be denied that the tendency is whether designed to be so or not we will not pretend to say—to still further centralize the power of government in the city of Providence, which is sometimes already denominated the state of Rhode Island, because of its preponderance in legislative and other councils. Our forefathers were especially jealous of town rights, and thought to make provision for their preservation in perpetuity. Under the present constitution these principles have been enjoyed without disturbance, but it must be confessed that the document now presented for approval makes the cities supreme, and the country towns mere attributes of statehood. It is true that the number of representatives in the General Assembly is not materially diminished in the country towns as a whole, but the body is increased quite largely, and, according to the new arrangement, the total additions are given to Providence and vicinity, which practically secures a diminution of authority throughout other portions of the state. For instance, Providence has its delegation in the house of representatives doubled, while Newport gains but one member, and so it may seem that our city has no reason for complaint. But under these circumstances Newport is relatively placed in the rear and subject to the still more complete control of the greater city. In this way the towns will suffer a loss of prestige as effectually and as greatly as though their actual representation in the General Assembly had been cut down. Rhode Islanders have always been very watchful of the influence and power of the small towns, which the founders of the state set out to defend and to justify. The new constitution goes very far towards a practical obliteration of their independence by giving greater command and control to central influences.

All this of course is in accord with progressive democracy, and it may be that citizens of the Rhode Island towns will not object to the curtailment; but they should vote with their eyes open and with a full understanding of the merits of the situation. Another of the changes to be secured by this revised constitution is that which cuts short the record of one of the oldest traditions of the state, and one of the most quaint and attractive of modern times. From the earliest days in our history Newport has been one of the state capitals and the governors elect have been inducted into office in the old State House at the head of the Mall. The ceremonies connected therewith have been so unusual and so suggestive of former times that the suggestion of their abolition is like laying unholy hands on sacred institutions. The people come from far and near to witness these peculiar services, including many persons from other states, and the occasion serves as a gala day with peculiar significance.

Now we do not think that Rhode Island should have two state capitals in the ordinary sense of the word, but under the circumstances it might be well to continue in this city the inauguration services connected with the induction of the governor and other state officials into office. This can be done without providing for a session of the General Assembly for ordinary legislation, which could meet under the new conditions in this ancient capital for a single day, and its work might well be limited to this service. We submit that Rhode Island should not be called upon to give up its oldest and hitherto its most cherished tradition without good reason, and we see no occasion for the sweeping change arranged for in this direction. Already we have been told many times that Newport was seeing its last Election day and having its final ceremonies in this line, and from some quarters this has been said with an air of triumph, as if the humiliation of our ancient city were a thing to be hugely enjoyed. Of course no citizen of Newport will view it in this light, and we submit that ancient traditions, like the Newport Election and the Fourth of July, should not be lightly set aside, and the observances to be connected therewith abolished. But the new constitution makes a clean sweep of these old-time functions, so that the records of the fathers, as preserved up to this point, will henceforth become a mere memory.

History affords numerous precedents for such conditions. St. Petersburg is known as the modern capital of Russia, but the czars are crowned in the Kremlin, the old capitol building at Moscow. Paris is the renowned capital of France, but, whether king or president, the rulers of the nation are inducted into office at Versailles. England leaves its splendid Parliament buildings in London and crowns its sovereigns in the ancient Westminster Abbey, and so we might name numerous other peoples among whom this respect for the past is so far regarded that were changes in this direction to be made and these old-time customs disregarded revolutions would be likely to follow.

There appears to be a fitness in what we ask for here at home, though tradition binds us less strongly than in the Old World, that demands the continuance of the customs which are now proposed to be cut short. All the governors of Rhode Island have been inaugurated in the old State House, and they constitute an honored and honorable list. In early times the proceedings were such as now strike us strangely, but it is well now and then to recognize the customs of the fathers as an object lesson of the way of doing things when conditions were different. No people can afford to cut loose from the memories of the past, or to speak lightly of them, provided the occasions were honorable and the actors worthy to be held in memory. And so, as it is evident that the interests of the people are not to be seriously affected, whatever may be the result of next Tuesday's voting, we believe it well to vote "No" on the constitution proposition.

The experience of Buffalo and Cleveland goes to show that striking is about as destructive to self-respect among street car conductors and motormen as among the foreigners who work the mines of Pennsylvania and Ohio. It is a pity that controversies between employers and their workmen cannot be adjusted in a more manly way than by a resort to brute force. We know very little of the merits involved in these cases, but it requires no inside information to enable us to decide that a party which resorts to throwing stones and brickbats is, so far, in the wrong in every case.

Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, has a large chorus choir, which would constitute in some localities a respectable congregation by itself. Last Sunday all the women in it appeared without hats or bonnets, and this is taken as a forerunner of a change that is to come by the doffing of all headgear in service time. It is reported that Dr. Hillis, the new pastor, does not like what he calls the "millinery display," and is likely to use his influence to favor the change. The choir is supposed to have been simply setting an example for the congregation to follow.

Ex-Senator Gorman is booming up with considerable proportions as a rival of Colonel Bryan for the Presidential nomination. He is receiving much support in Pennsylvania, and it is said that the Massachusetts Democrats can be counted upon in his support as against the especially free-silver candidate. New York also is giving him strong support under the leadership of Hon. Perry Belmont and other sound-money politicians.

Two colored regiments of the United States army have been ordered to the Philippines and two more are to be recruited for the same service. It is thought the negro fighters have peculiar adaptations to this service, as it has never been reported that colored soldiers were afraid of anything; while their record on the frontier shows that they take to guerilla fighting and skirmishes with great pleasure.

The country appears to be pretty well satisfied with the sentences pronounced upon the kidnappers of little Marion Clark. If the courts were always to proceed with equal promptness in administering justice to criminals there would be less inclination on the part of unthinking people toward lynching.

The Baltimore News says the season has come when the respective sections of Maryland have begun to re-open the old disputes as to which was the real Garden of Eden.

Grover Cleveland and his family are on their way to their cottage at Marion, in the vicinity of Buzzard's Bay. This does not create quite so much excitement as it would have done were he the actual occupant of the White House, but nevertheless the coming of Mr. Cleveland is hailed with pleasure by all who have occasion or opportunity to meet him and his family.

President McKinley and his party have arrived at Holyoke, and so have a good many other people, in attendance upon the exercises of the girls' college in that city.

The Standard Oil Company is increasing its capital stock from $10,000,000 to $110,000,000. These must be prosperous days for that great corporation.

The arrival of Admiral Sampson's fleet in Boston harbor was hailed with great pleasure by the citizens, and today is a gala day for the old town.

Hon. Bellamy Storer has been formally received at Madrid and given an audience with the queen regent. All will now be forgiven.

The friends of Mark Twain give him the honor of a dinner in London, which is no joke.

A CREST FOR EVERYBODY.

Not everybody, we learn with sincere pleasure, treats with brutal ridicule those aspiring mortals who seek to remedy the carelessness of their ancestors by inventing, or causing to be invented, the armorial bearings that make such pretty ornaments for stationery and coaches. There is in Rome a church named for St. Lorenzo Fuori. Its eastern chapel—in which Pio Nono was interred—is to be decorated with beautiful mosaics, and whoever gives $200 or more toward the expense of the work will have his or her coat of arms immortalized on the wall. A circular issued by the church authorities says: "A difficulty may arise from the fact that American families do not use any armorial bearings." How much more considerate is that "use" than "have" would have been! Also, how reassuring is the following—and how eminently sensible as well: "Armorial bearings are only an emblem, a mark, which a private family create for themselves, and which becomes their own emblem, as their family name is their own name, and they may use their armorial bearings in the same way, let us say, as a commercial firm use their trade mark which is their own exclusive mark, as the firm is their own exclusive firm, in the same way as the seal of a company, of a corporation, of a public officer, is respectively and exclusively the seal thereof."

It is a mistake, the circular declares, to suppose that coats of arms are the exclusive property of the nobility and their descendants. People of title, to be sure, do have coats of arms, but that is only because they chose to do so and then persuaded somebody to record the selected device. Anybody can do the same thing today, and the executive committee by whom this appeal is issued have removed all difficulties—the $200 contribution being presupposed—by ordering their heraldry department to supply armorial bearings for American families that are as yet unprovided. It troubles us a little that this offer is addressed so directly to "American families." That is a small matter, however. A good coat of arms, solemnly authenticated in mosaic on the wall of a church in ancient Rome, is well worth $200 if it's worth a cent.—[New York Times.

NORMAN STILL THERE.

Needed a New and More Powerful Bell at Rose Island.

At high water this morning lighter J. K. Sullivan and tug H. T. Sisson pulled on stranded steamer Norman, but again without result. The J. K. Sullivan was astern, with two anchors out, and pulled on the vessel with a series of tackles that gave a very much heavier and steadier strain than two tugs could have exerted. The tide, however, was about two feet lower than when the ship grounded, and though over half her cargo had been lightered she did not move. It now seems certain that all the cargo and coal of the Norman must be taken out, and perhaps pontoons will be necessary to float her. The vessel appears to have run on a long, flat rock, covered deep with mussels, and has in consequence probably escaped serious injury.

In relation to the signal at Rose Island light, the Fall River Globe says: "In talking of the accident to steamer Norman, pilots of the Fall River line boats advanced the opinion that the light at Rose Island does not receive the proper amount of attention from the government. A new bell would be a big improvement there. The bell in use at present does not ring enough, and its sound is entirely too light. The pilots believe that a heavier bell is a necessity, for at present boats must fairly crawl through the dangerous place and get quite close before they can make the bell as they like to before proceeding. Rose Island is regarded as the turning point in the lower bay, and no pilot would think of trying to get a steamer outside before making the light, so that he can get his exact bearings. Men who have passed the spot hundreds of times are fooled there and it seems as if something should be done to lessen the danger."

MISS DRESSER'S WEDDING.

Cablegrams received from Miss Susan Leroy Dresser by relatives on this side of the water announce that her marriage to Vicomte Romain d'Osmoy of Normandy will take place in Paris Tuesday next. Miss Dresser's brother, Mr. Daniel Leroy Dresser, and two of her sisters, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and Mrs. George Grenville Merrill, have not been able to arrange to go abroad for the event, but Miss Dresser will have with her her sister, Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, and Mr. Vanderbilt; her aunt, Mrs. Edward King, and her cousin, Miss Mary Leroy King. The wedding will not be an elaborate function in consequence of the absence of most of the relatives of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will leave for America very soon after the wedding and the vicomte and vicomtesse will follow them a few days later for a visit to the latter's relatives at Newport, where the early season will doubtless be greatly enlivened through social entertainments in their honor.

—Miss Julia Danniston, eldest daughter of Mr. George Danniston, died suddenly this morning at the home of her father. She was well known by a large circle of friends. As she had been in poor health for a number of years, her death, though sudden, was not entirely unexpected.

—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Miss Gladys Vanderbilt are passengers on steamship Lucania, which sailed from Liverpool today for New York. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will come to Newport immediately upon their arrival and occupy "The Breakers," which is already prepared for them.

No action was taken last night, though after the meeting the members of the committee talked to their conferers as to what should be done, and of course secured many ideas.

Mr. Bull told Mrs. Graham to employ no attorney and pay no money to secure prompt action on her claim, as he would personally see to it.

CASIMIR IN THE DARK.

Knew No More of the Dreyfus Affair Than He Told.

PARIS, June 17.—In connection with the multiplicity of stories in the newspapers attributing to former President Casimir-Perier a variety of misdeeds in connection with the Dreyfus affair, a curious semi-official note was issued this afternoon. It says: "Extraordinary as it may seem, M. Casimir-Perier, when president, was cognizant only of what he affirmed on oath before the court of cassation. As regards all the rumors current concerning his acts, steps and declarations he will give a full explanation before the court-martial at Rennes."

NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY.

The Providence Telephone Company has issued a new directory, arranged on a new plan. Instead of the subscribers in the several cities and towns being arranged in lists by themselves, as in former issues, all the subscribers in the state, whether from Providence, Newport or elsewhere, are arranged in one alphabetical list, with the city or town clearly indicated in each case. This, it is believed, will be found more satisfactory than the former plan. An important notice is given in the directory as follows: "When calling for a number, whether in Providence or other exchanges, the name of the office must be given first, with the number."

WESTCHESTER WINS.

In the final match for the polo cups offered by the Westchester Country Club of Westchester, played on the field of the Meadow Brook Club, at Hempstead, Long Island, yesterday the Westchester team won by a score of six and three quarter goals to one goal for Meadow Brook. The team work of the Westchester men was perfect, and their individual play was good. The Meadow Brooks were able to get the elusive little white ball only once between their goal posts. For the Westchester team the work of Keene was probably the most brilliant of any member.

The players were: For Meadow Brook, W. C. Eustis, G. C. Baldwin, H. P. Whitney and B. Nicoll. Westchester, S. Mortimer, J. E. Cowdin, F. Keene and L. Waterbury.

NEWPORT COTTAGE RESIDENT INJURED.

Former Alderman Robert Hall of New York, who owns and occupies during the summer a cottage on Washington street in this city, and his wife were thrown from their carriage last evening by a Madison avenue car at Sixty-second street, New York. Mr. Hall, when taken up, was thought to be dead, but his wife was not so seriously injured. Mr. Hall had been driving with his wife in a runabout behind a spirited team of colts, and was returning home when the trolley car struck the vehicle, knocking it to one side. Mr. Hall was found lying on the sidewalk and Mrs. Hall in the roadway. The horses were running at breakneck speed through Sixty-second street toward Park avenue.

Mrs. Hall was carried into a physician's office, where restoratives were given her. The physician remained with Mr. Hall, who was unconscious, until a carriage was called, and then accompanied him to his home. He was found to be suffering from a long cut on the left side of the head and concussion of the brain. It required twelve stitches to close the wound on his head. Mrs. Hall received a cut on her forehead which required seven stitches. She was also badly cut about the limbs. Mr. Hall remained unconscious for some time after he had been taken home. The physicians say that his injuries, while serious, are not likely to prove fatal.

Locke Richardson, who died in Berlin Thursday, was an American who had achieved a pre-eminent position in the line of work to which he devoted himself. He was an elocutionist of rare intelligence and power, and his readitions were chiefly confined to portions of Shakespeare's plays. He spent the season at Jamestown in 1897. Professor Richardson was about 55 years old. He left this country in the latter part of March, 1898. He had long been suffering from a cancer, and when he went to Berlin to be operated on grave fears that he would never recover were prevalent among his friends. He had a wife and family, who were with him in Berlin. He had accumulated more money in the practice of his profession than is customary even with good elocutionists, and his work had been of such an order as to receive the praise of critics of undisputed weight.

Care of the Eyes.

Avoid sudden changes from dark to brilliant light, avoid the use of stimulants and drugs which affect the nervous system, avoid reading when lying down or when mentally or physically exhausted. When the eyes feel tired rest them by looking at objects at a long distance. Do not depend on your own judgment in selecting spectacles, but consult an experienced optician. You will find our Mr. Reuss will tell you whether you need glasses and the proper kind required. We do this free of charge.

One of the Finest Wines in the World.

Margaux lies 25 Kil N. W. of Bordeaux, and is known under the name of Port Margaux. The ancient Isle of Vincent and the Isle of La Tour de Mons form a portion of Margaux. The soil is very fertile, of a blackish kind of earth, mixed with a great number of pebbles, forming an irregular bed. Its reputation is universal. It is, without doubt, in successful years, the first wine of the world, gifted with a beautiful color, much delicacy and splendid bouquet; it is generous without being heavy, reviving the stomach while respecting the head.

I should be glad to receive your order for this famous wine. In lots of 3 cases price as above.

Pawtucket, June 16.—It was a pitchers' battle today between Callahan and Hawke, the former having a shade the better of the argument. Both were supported in fine style, Curtis's catching and Bone's work at second being features. Hawke struck out eight, but the locals made the most of every safety from his delivery. The only run scored by the visitors was Shay's homer over the right fence. Score:

Taunton, Mass., June 16.—Taunton won from Manchester in the last half of the ninth inning today, in one of the best games of the season. Although the home team was outbatted the hits of the visitors were scattered and not so effective. Manchester's infield put up a fast game, five double plays being scored. A feature was a one-handed catch of a fly by Russell in the eighth inning. The score:

Notes.

The Newports will play at Freebody Park Monday with the Brocktons, and Tuesday with the Portlands.

Gannon and T. Smith joined the Newports at Manchester Thursday, but too late to play in the game. Smith pitched his initial game for Newport against the Portlands yesterday. Gannon was on last year's list of pitchers.

According to the report of the game between the Newports and Manchesters which appeared in the Manchester Union, the game must have been a good one, and the Newport players must have shaken off the lethargy that wrapped them when here. The spectators appear to have applauded every good play whether by the home team players or the visitors.

THE BROOKLYN STRUCK UPON A SUBMERGED WRECK.

The report of the court of inquiry appointed to ascertain the facts connected with the grounding of the Brooklyn in New York harbor Decoration day has been received at the Navy Department. The court found that the vessel struck upon an unknown and totally submerged wreck, and forwarded a quantity of splinters that were sticking in the torn plates of the Brooklyn's bottom.

The report has been referred to Judge Advocate General Lemly, who will determine whether or not there shall be any further proceedings in the case.

COUNTERFEIT FIVE-DOLLAR GOLD PIECES.

In one of the deposits recently offered at the National Bank of Rhode Island was a five-dollar gold piece which Teller John P. Peckham at once regarded with suspicion. Just why he could not say. He called the attention of the depositor to the coin and the latter said that so far as he knew it was genuine. He had tested it, and apparently it was gold. The teller tried the piece in the scales, and found it just a trifle light and a little larger than the regulation coin; otherwise the piece seemed to be perfect, but it was rejected by the bank. The depositor was not satisfied that the coin was not genuine, so he sent it to the United States treasury with a letter explaining the situation. Yesterday he received a reply stating that the coin is a counterfeit, and one of the most dangerous the department has met.

The exterior appears to be gold, for it stood the usual acid test; the work on the coin seems perfect, the only means of distinguishing it from the genuine being the size and weight, the former being just over and the latter just under the regulation.

It appears that this is not the only dangerous counterfeit of the five-dollar gold piece seen here this season, one other being reported a few weeks ago. It would not be at all surprising if there were several others in the city, for the imitation is so near the genuine as to deceive nearly any ordinary individual.

Drink Grain-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

DISTRICT COURT CASES.

The regular Friday session of the district court was not held yesterday until 5.30 o'clock, Judge Baker being engaged in the higher court.

John Jackson was tried on a warrant charging larceny, and was discharged.

John Roach was arraigned on a charge of being a sturdy beggar. He pleaded nolo and agreed to leave the precincts of Newport at once if given a chance; he was given the chance, being released on his own recognizance, and his case was continued to July 21, at which time if John be in Newport he will get his sentence.

James McKenna, for assault on his wife, was found guilty, fined $1 and costs and claimed an appeal.

The other cases on the docket were continued. The assault case in connection with the synagogue trouble was to have been tried, but owing to the absence of counsel was continued to June 30.

Peckham, the New York lawyer, formerly of this city, and his son Paul were prosecuted by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for killing a neighbor's cat with too much torture. The cat had been gradually but surely reducing Mr. Peckham's choice poultry, and was shot. The jury sustained Mr. Peckham's position by declaring there was no cause for action in the case. One of the papers gives an entire column to a report of the proceedings.

FOR LIGHT WEATHER.

been built for light weather, and it is considered that her chances of success will be reduced should the weather be heavy during the cup races. Her deck and overdeck arrangements, as regards sails, etc., are considered original and peculiarly effective. Light Larchwood berths are being fitted for the use of the crew in crossing the Atlantic. The contracts of the crews have been signed for six months certain on racing pay, and substantial bonuses have been promised in case of victory.

The first appearance of the Shamrock will be at the Hunter's Quay Regatta, Firth of Clyde, where Sir Thomas Lipton gives a 100 guinea cup. The cup challenger will not be regularly raced, but will take a few trial spins, and may, perhaps, be tested in a race or two. But that will be arranged according to the weather. If it is wet Captain Hogarth will not set the new mainsail. From the Clyde the Shamrock will proceed to the Royal Ulster Regatta, in Belfast Loche, where the same course in regard to her trials will be followed. It is very improbable that Shamrock will go to Cowes and meet the Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia. She is more likely to be placed under Ketch rig and get away immediately for New York from North Ireland, so as to get a good Atlantic passage.

England has the usual mixture of winter and summer this week. Until Thursday it was so cold that the weather seriously interfered with the brilliancy of Ascot, to which place the social headquarters was transferred. Women appeared in furs and heavy coats and the men wore overcoats. But, Thursday and Friday ideal summer weather enabled the fair sex to make a dazzling display of light, airy gowns, and brought an enormous assemblage to the Royal Heath. There were more coaches than usual, the team of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough being specially admired. In the royal enclosure there was a large contingent of Americans, including all the members of the United States embassy, the Bradley-Martins, Mrs. Bougge, Lady Deerhurst, Lady William Beresford, Lady Randolph Churchill and Mrs. "Jack" Leslie. Thursday, Cup Day, the gowns were especially beautiful, flowered muslins predominating. The Duchess of Marlborough wore white silk, covered with fine, black lace; Lady Mary Sackville was dressed in white lace over white satin, with hanging sleeves of lace, and touches of blue satin at the waist, and a large Leghorn hat embellished with pink roses; Lady Hesketh's costume was of flowered muslin, and she also wore a beautiful necklace of round opals.

The Charity Bazaar, to be held in aid of Charing Cross Hospital, is much talked of among the aristocracy and others. A representative of the Associated Press has interviewed the Countess of Chesterfield and Mrs. Arthur Paget on the subject. The latter said: "We have practically got every noted family in London interested. Mrs. Bradley-Martin has brought choice silver objets d'art from Tiffany's and Whiting's. Mrs. Ronalds has been in Paris all week long buying things for the bazaar; the Misses Drexel and Swift and Mrs. Clarence Mackay are getting together a fine collection for the American stall, at which the stall-holders will be attired in white gowns, lace fichus, sashes of the national colors, and large picture hats." Among the ladies who will attend the stalls are sixteen duchesses, including the Duchess of Marlborough.

Professor Mazzoni revisited the pope early this week to examine the scar from which the bandage was removed only three weeks ago. The pope asked him how long he thought he would live, and the surgeon replied: "I believe Your Holiness will see the new century."

Dr. Lawson Tait, one of the foremost authorities on abdominal surgery in England, who died June 13, has placed his family in a dilemma by expressing on his deathbed a wish to be buried in a romantic cave in his garden at Llandudno, called "Gogarth cave," formerly connected with the ancient abbey of Gogarth. The home secretary, however, waived all objections, and has given the necessary permission. The body will be sent to Liverpool for cremation, the ashes will be enclosed in an urn and it will be placed in the cave.

Archbishop Ireland is expected in London June 21, and the United States ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, will give a big dinner July 5, in honor of the archbishop and Mr. Mark Hanna, and all the leading Americans in London will be present. Archbishop Ireland will be the guest of the Duke of Norfolk and Cardinal Vaughan.

Connoisseurs are greatly excited at the forthcoming sale of the Marlborough gems at Christie's. It will be the most important of its kind since 1875, when the same collection was sold en bloc for 35,000 guineas. The purchaser, David Bromlow, maintained the collection intact, but he recently died, and the gems, which the third Duke of Marlborough spent the best part of his life in gathering, will be scattered.

THE SURGEON'S KNIFE.

ONCE BELIEVED TO BE THE ONLY CURE FOR PILES AND RECTAL DISEASES.

A Better Way Now Discovered Which Cures Every Form of Piles Without Pain or Inconvenience.

Many people suffer the pain, annoyance and other serious results from piles, for years, and after trying the many lotions, salves, ointments and the many so called cures without cure or relief, give up the hope of final cure, rather than submit to the intense pain and danger which a surgical operation involves.

Happily all this suffering is no longer necessary since the discovery of the Pyramid Pile Cure; a remedy which is approved by medical profession as being absolutely safe, free from any trace of opiates, narcotic or mineral poisons and which may be depended upon as a sure cure (not only relief) for any form of piles, whether itching, blind, bleeding or protruding. Some of the hundreds of cures recently made are a little short of marvelous, as a perusal of the following will demonstrate:

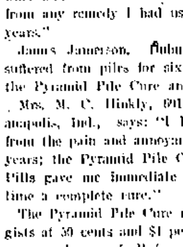

Major Dean of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I wish to add to the number of certificates as to the benefit derived from the Pyramid Pile Cure. I suffered from piles for forty years and from itching piles for twenty years, and two boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure have effectually cured me."

Dr. J. W. Meagan of Leonardville, Kan., writes: "I have used one box of Pyramid Pile Cure and received more benefit and relief than from any remedy I had used in the past twenty years."

James Jamerson, Dubuque, Iowa, says: "I suffered from piles for six years; have just used the Pyramid Pile Cure and am a well man."

Mrs. M. C. Hinkly, 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I have been a sufferer from the pain and annoyances of piles for fifteen years; the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills gave me immediate relief and in a short time a complete cure."

The Pyramid Pile Cure may be found at druggists at 50 cents and $1 per package. A book on cause and cure of all forms of piles will be sent by mail, by addressing the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

ASBURY PARK.

The Ambition of Its Founder and the Character of the Summer Population.

Perhaps it is merely Asbury Park's wonderful cleanliness that inclines one to call its stretch of beach the finest from Sandy Hook down. Perhaps the sand is not firmer, broader, whiter here, nor the breakers bigger or of grander contour than may be seen farther north along the Jersey coast. Eyes adjusted to the Botsam feather-beds, wrecked safes and broken crockery, the squeezed lemons, water-logged biscuits and derelict general groceries of Sea Bright and Long Branch benches can scarcely be reckoned upon in the dazzle of clear, clean sand. Still, all due allowance being made, it remains conservative to say that Asbury Park shore can afford to face criticism and that the founder of the town showed himself a wise man in the choice of the site of his novel experiment. The Asbury Park began, in fact, as an experiment pure and simple, and still is, despite its growth and strength, very largely controlled by its inventor.

Twenty odd years ago Mr. Bradley, a well-to-do manufacturer, conceived the idea that a certain considerable class of his fellow citizens stood in need of a summer resort especially designed for their use. Newport, Atlantic City, Bar Harbor, Coney Island, Ocean Grove, Long Branch, each had its special and peculiar patronage and attractions; but where was the haven in which the great mass of decent, unpretentious folk of small means and of no special religious demonstrativeness might find their wants fulfilled. To meet the question, the Asbury Park of today was gradually evolved, and so practically does it answer its avowed purpose that criticism stands disarmed before it, forced to admit that its real usefulness covers as with a garment any idiosyncrasies of its form.

Mr. Bradley, as a first step, bought the tract on which the town has since arisen, laid it out in broad streets to secure good air and pleasant views, sold it in small lots to keep prices low, and covered each lot with restrictions favorable to his scheme. He then organized a government whose object should be to create a model town, from the point of view of morals, sanitation, and suitable attractions and improvements. The town lots were soon taken up, mainly by persons who borrowed money to build houses thereon, and who make those houses merely their winter homes, resigning them in the summer season for the sake of a rental revenue of from $150 to $600.

The entire ocean front, about a mile in length, the founder retains in his own hands. Here he built a bicycle path and board walk, threw out jetties to protect the sand from the sea, and put up two large roofed platforms, partly open to the breeze, partly enclosed in glass, to provide a pleasant shelter whence invalids may watch the spectacle of the beach. Aside from these "pavilions," are carefully arranged bathing establishments of great capacity; and dotted here and there on the high ground overlooking the sea are inviting little sanitarium libraries kept open throughout the year.

The beach is very sedulously policed, in every sense of the word. No disfiguring drift remains there long, and no disorder on the part of visitors or roughness on the part of employes is permitted to go unchecked. The town government appropriates yearly about $5,000 for the payment of a brass band to play each summer afternoon and evening in one or the other "pavilion." And along the whole length of the beach are scattered curious playthings for the amusement of children; here a dismantled sailboat raised on piles three or four feet above the sand, and attained by a peg-ladder, that imparts a flavor of adventure to the game; here a wooden toadstool umbrella, under which to wish a wish at flood tide; here a great, rusty ships anchor, hanging from a pile; and there, again, an iron-barred lion cage, opened-doored, or an old-fashioned fire engine freshly painted in bright colors. Everything on the beach is at the disposal of the public without price, with the solitary exception of the bath-houses. The use of a bath-house and a bathing suit costs 25 cents, and it is said that the revenue from this source amounted last summer to nearly $50,000.

Gambling and the sale of intoxicants are positively forbidden. More than this, every form of entertainment must pass an examination and secure a license before opening its doors. It would be difficult to name a catch-penny show, from marionettes to a merry-go-round, that has not its place here, and each one of the hundreds on the list must rehearse its full program in the presence of the local censors as an indispensable preliminary to setting up in trade.

Having stated these facts, it seems scarcely necessary to point out in words the exact nature of Asbury Park's summer population—a population numbering, in August, some 70,000, exclusive of the hordes of excursionists constantly pouring in from places even as remote as Pittsburg and Albany, for a few hours' play by the sea. Speaking in general, it is fair to say that the great majority of the 70,000 consists, first, of the families of business men of limited means, whose tastes are gratified here, and who, in the enforced absence of husband or father, are glad to anchor in a spot where cheapness, health, lively amusement, and the entire absence of a blackguard element are so singularly combined. The second great component part of the summer population is drawn from the numerous company of struggling employes and others of the ill, who, by careful economy during the winter, accumulate a little fund for a brief vacation, and who, filling the legion boarding-houses of the town, are satisfied by the conditions about them.

Given such a public it would naturally occur to one liking to sweeten shrewd business with practical philanthropy that something might be done in timely ministry to the mind. Standing near the ocean front is a great wooden "auditorium," capable of seating 5,000 persons. This, Mr. Bradley, the owner, makes over, rent, light, heat and care free, to a local Presbyterian pastor, who control its summer career. The pastor, once superintendent of New York city missions, is a man of much tolerance, and the breadth of hospitality of his program does credit to the courage of his convictions. Morning and evening, on summer Sundays, divine service is held in the auditorium. This year Dr. Lyman Abbott will make the opening address. Last year Dr. Briggs, Sam. Jones, and other preachers of equal note and diversity, spoke in the same place. One service annually is permitted to the Salvation Army, and another to the Volunteers, over which General Booth and Mrs. Ballington Booth have heretofore presided. And on Sunday afternoons, the auditorium is devoted to "good citizenship greetings," when the speakers are usually men of political prominence, and of the greatest possible variety of beliefs.

"My desire," says the governor of these things, "is to give the people fresh ideas. I don't in the least care what ideas, if only they are real and honest ones. I show them every form of the Christian religion; each expressed by its most striking representatives. In politics, too, my principle is the same. Senator Hoar lectured here last year as well as his most radical opponents. This year we would have Bryan and Roosevelt, were these gentlemen obtainable. And we are trying to secure a few distinguished soldiers and sailors and some good speakers from the Red Cross to talk about the late war. The object is to make the people think, to give them, besides their fun and their health, a mental impetus, and to send them home from their outing with some intelligent notion of what is doing in the wide world outside their little one."

Although the great auditorium is always crowded at each service, the sum taken up in the collections is commonly small. "Six hundred pennies," says the clergyman already quoted, "have often been found in one contribution plate, and we would not have it otherwise. Some of our people have money to spare, but they are the minority. The man or woman who has scraped together $25 for a well-earned and sorely needed vacation has properly no more than pennies left for the church, after counting out railway fares, board bill, bath tickets and extra nickels and dimes for the congenial amusements that offer here. Religion ought to be free. But since it is not—since able clergymen are not always averse to laying up treasures on earth—we must raise money somehow to buy it; hence the Auditorium's week-day business, whose proceeds go to defray Sunday's heavy expenses, but whose services are otherwise directly of use in furnishing innocent amusement to the crowds."

As might be expected under such a management, the "weekday business" rivals the other in point of variety. Negro minstrels and "mild vaudeville" figure among entertainments of quite another cast, all, however, sharing alike in the strict censorship that excludes anything dissonant with the moral color of the place.

This omnipresent censorship, so constantly displayed, must at times become a trifle irksome, even to its most orderly protégé. That its advantages have far outbalanced its faults is proved, however, by the steady rise in the value of town property. A beach hotel site originally bought for $3,50 is now worth about $20,000, and the renting of cottages is livelier and more profitable this year than ever before.

Finally reviewing the town, with its tidy little houses and lawns, its firm, broad, well-kept roads, its pure water supply, good sewerage and excellent fire department, its three pretty lakelets, its sweet-scented pine groves, its immaculate beach and its splendid surf, edged by all Coney Island's innocent joys with none of Coney Island's rowdyism—reviewing all these things as they are neatly fitted together on their little checker board, and seeing on all sides the evidences of a government careful of the people's every want, one cannot but indorse the whole. To put so much of real value within the reach of the slenderest purse is to perform a public service and to merit public gratitude. Some there be who could not please their fancies here, and such will quite naturally stay away. But "for the people who like this sort of thing, this is just the sort of thing they like," and ought to have.—Letter to Boston Transcript.

He was in all the battles and skirmishes of the Potomac flotilla from October, 1862, to April, 1863. He was with steamer Princess Royal in the battle of Donaldsonville, La., in 1863, and did valuable work as a spy in the Confederate camps. He carried despatches through the enemy's country to Admiral Farragut, and for this service was nominated by the President for advancement 15 numbers in his grade. The deed was characterized as "extraordinary heroism." He was made pay inspector in 1881, and at one time held the position of superintendent of the Panama railway. He was given the rank of commander in September, 1883.

Surgeon Henderson of the United States naval hospital at Yokohama telegraphs the Navy Department that Captain George W. Collin, retired, died at Yokohama Thursday. He obtained a year's leave of absence last year, with permission to go abroad, and was spending it with his daughter and her husband, Surgeon Henderson, at the Yokohama naval hospital, at the time of his death. Captain Collin was appointed to the navy from Massachusetts September 20, 1860, as an acting midshipman, and became a captain September 27, 1883. He was placed on the retired list September 15, 1897.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, June 17. Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Atchison at 17⅝, Burlington 131, Manhattan 112½, Brooklyn Transit 118¾, People's Gas 120⅝, Rock Island 111⅝, Sugar 152⅜, Federal Steel 64, and Federal Steel preferred 87⅝.

10—The opening of the stock market was listless and the movement of prices so small and enervating as to leave the tone uncertain. There was slight firmness in the coalers, but the Flower group was allowed to relapse.

11—Trading became more apathetic. The fact that there was only one transaction in St. Paul in a half hour, despite the remarkable showing of earnings of the road for the second week of June, demonstrated the lack of interest in the general list. Considerable weakness developed in Sugar, Tin Plate, Chicago Terminal preferred, American Car preferred, National Steel, American Hoop and International Paper, which yielded one to 2¾.

Closing—Money on call, steady at 2½; closed, 2 @ 2½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3 @ 3½ per cent; sterling exchange, steady, at $4.87⅞ @ $4.88 for demand and $4.85⅞ @ $4.86 for sixty days; posted rates, $4.86½ @ $4.87 and $4.89; commercial bills, $4.85 @ ½; silver certificates, 60½ @ 62; bar silver, 60⅝; Mexican dollars, 48½; government bonds, steady; state bonds, inactive. Baltimore & Ohio stocks dropped off 2½ and 1½ for the common and preferred and a few transactions elsewhere showed lower prices. The unfavorable bank statement failed to bring in selling orders and the bears had to cover, bringing up prices slightly. The Colorado stocks stiffened sharply. The closing was very dull but strong. Net changes in most stocks were two per cent. The total sales of stocks today were 127,173 shares.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, decreased, $9,319,900; loans, increased, $15,902,600; specie, decreased, $7,605,800; legal tenders, increased, $170,500; deposits, increased, $9,038,100; circulation, decreased, $22,700. The banks now hold $30,003,200 in excess of legal requirements.

$700 FOR THE FOURTH.

Aldermanic Committee Appointed to Guard Against Small Pox.

A brief and uneventful meeting of the City Council was held last evening. The first business was the reading of a communication from Mayor Boyle stating that he had called the council in special session to arrange the preliminaries for an appropriate observance of the anniversary of American independence, stating that it was hardly desirable that the Fourth of July should be allowed to pass without some recognition by the city.

A resolution was passed making an appropriation of $700 for the celebration and appointing Aldermen Hamilton and O'Neill and Councilmen Groff, Gibson and Kelley a committee to arrange and carry out the celebration in behalf of the city. In the board of aldermen, where the resolution originated, Mr. O'Neill moved that the appropriation be $500, but Mr. Hamilton said that he had been on Fourth of July committees before and he knew that $500 would be too small for any sort of a celebration. Mr. Shepley moved that the appropriation be $700 and that motion prevailed.

A petition was received from Charlotte M. Noyes and others asking that the sewer in Francis street between Rhode Island avenue and Everett street, or rather from No. 15 Francis street to the junction of Francis and Everett streets, a distance of about 100 feet, be taken up, the grade raised and made to connect with the sewer in Rhode Island avenue. The petition was referred to the committee on streets and highways.

The petition of Sidney B. Gladding and others asking for a street light on Vernon avenue near Broadway was referred to the committee on street lights.

In the board of aldermen fruit venders' licenses were granted to Nakely D. Boulos and Angela Pedoretta, whose applications had received the approval of the chief of police, and to Martin Garrity a hack driver's license to James W. Hardy and an eating house license to John F. Lewis at 8 Commercial wharf. The application of Martin J. Kelley for a fruit vender's license was referred to the chief of police.

The aldermen then came to order as a board of health and Mayor Boyle read a communication calling attention to the presence of small pox in neighboring cities. He said that the physicians of the city would act with the board of health in this matter and he thought it would be well to be on guard against the introduction of the disease here. Aldermen Hamilton and Shanteler, the aldermanic members of the committee on health and sanitation, were appointed a sub-committee of the board to take such precautionary steps as may be necessary in the matter.

The City Council adjourned to meet Thursday evening, July 6 instead of on Tuesday evening, July 4, which is the regular night for the monthly meeting.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE DANIEL WATSON.

To the Editor of the News:

A most notable characteristic of the late Mr. Daniel Watson was his kindness of heart and practical sympathy with all forms of human suffering. His was indeed the best conditioned and most unwearied spirit in doing courtesies, kindnesses and services to all who came in his way, stricken with any of the thousand ills and disabilities to which flesh is heir. This trait in his disposition has proved very costly to him, in time and means, from early life; and it is pleasant to his friends, now that he has been called to "that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns," to have divine assurance that he will find there abundant treasure to his credit.

My attention has been called to an old cutting from an issue of the Daily News, relating to a deed of Mr. Watson's, so entirely characteristic of his custom never to "pass by on the other side" when a fellow-mortal lay stricken and suffering in his way, that I cannot refrain from asking to have it reprinted as a grateful tribute to one who "did what he could" to lighten the sum of human suffering and misery, and whose sudden taking off has brought sorrow to many hearts outside of his immediate circle of relatives and friends. Under the caption of "The Rescue from the Cliffs," the News said:

In reporting the rescue of Sunday afternoon, an injustice was done to the person who was responsible for the saving of the man on the rock. Mr. Daniel Watson, who with hundreds of others saw the fisherman's precarious condition, interested himself in trying to secure a boat. After inviting several parties to assist him and receiving no favorable response he met the party of five from which the canvasser finally came. These men at once began searching for a boat, but had not found one when Mr. Watson led Mr. Bancroft's men to allow him to use the rowboat beached on Mr. Bancroft's place. When the boat was secured the entire party was anxious to go off, but only two were allowed. These took the man off and returned the boat to its place, and received from Mr. Watson $5 in recognition of the willingness with which they went to work, and as a testimonial for their work. Mr. Watson evidently appreciated their work more than did the man they rescued.

In an obituary notice in the News, it was incorrectly stated that Mr. Watson served during our civil war on several naval ships as hospital steward. The only service he rendered during the war, in the naval service, was on board the Cuyler, when I was surgeon of that ship. Mr. Watson had been drafted to serve in the army, but paid a substitute to take his place in the army, in order to take an appointment in the naval service as surgeon's steward, which I had arranged to have conferred upon him. He shipped for the navy, and was sent to the Cuyler, where, as arranged, he signed articles of agreement as surgeon's steward; and being the son and brother of medical men he made a most competent and desirable assistant for the medical department in those distressful war times, and finally had to take care of me when yellow fever invaded the ship.

ROUGH RIDERS OF THE WORLD.

Colonel Cody (Buffalo Bill) will give the people of Newport an opportunity next Wednesday to see a number of the members of Colonel Roosevelt's Rough Riders, men who actually saw battle, took part in skirmishes, and were wounded in different engagements in Cuba. These men are known the world over, and have been secured especially for the heroic charge up San Juan Hill, which is to be reproduced during the performance.

These Rough Riders are only part of the 600 persons who are to represent the Rough Riders of the different nations, including war-painted Sioux chiefs and braves, sinewy Cossacks from the Caucasus, fanatic Bedouins on their Arabian steeds, Lancers from the Queen's Own company chasseurs and cuirassiers from the crack cavalry regiments of their native countries, Uhlans, South American gauchos, detachments of

A FILIPINO ROUGH RIDER.

United States cavalry and artillery, Mexican rurales, vaqueros, czikos, dashing cowboys, scouts and frontiersmen, and Texas rangers. There will also be from the Philippine islands men and women who have their own manners in riding, a group of male and female Hawaiians, who are recognized as experts on the horse, the women introducing the religious dance of their country, which is very unique, and representatives of Cuba, Porto Rico and other islands recently acquired by the United States.

DEFENDER BACK HERE, AND COLUMBIA COMING.

Sloop yacht Defender came down from Bristol late yesterday afternoon and anchored in the outer harbor. During her stay in Bristol she had her underbody thoroughly cleaned and is now in better condition than before for her tuning-up trials. Mr. Royal Phelps Carroll's Navahoe arrived from New York shortly after the Defender dropped anchor, and lies in the inner harbor.

It is not expected that the Columbia will be ready for her trials before Monday or Tuesday of next week. The riggers are still at work on her and can hardly finish their task so that the boat can be sailed tomorrow, as at first expected. It is probable that when the Columbia is ready she will be towed here by her tender, the St. Michaels, as the new boat draws so much water that it is not thought desirable to sail her in the upper bay. Her trials will be had outside.

The Defender weighed anchor at 11 o'clock this morning and went outside for a spin.
